To the Citizens of Oregon!

A. H. FRANCIS,

FOR many years a Merchant in Portland, has opened a Commission House in Victoria, V. I., for the sale of all kinds of flour, grain, bacon, butter eggs, apples, &c., &c. All those having such articles to dispose of, and are desirous of turning them speedily into cash, at fair prices, will be accommodated by shipping to A H F, Victoria, V. I. My well known reputation as a merchant in Portland and my acquaintances and large trade in Victoria since 1859, will, I venture to say, be sufficient guarantee that every attention to quick and safe sales and prompt remittances, subject to the order of the consignees, will be strictly adhered to My business shall be strictly CASH, I would recommend shippers to ship the best quality of articles.

Hon Schuyler Colfax

The following is the speech of Mr Colfax at Washington City on the occasion of the reception which was tendered to the members of their Congress on their arrival at the beginning of the session

FELLOW CITIZENS Only four months have passed away since the first session of the Congress closed and the members whom you now greet with such generous and earnest welcome returned to their homes to give an account of their stewardship to the people and to discuss before that tribunal from which there is no rightful appeal, the greatest issues ever submitted on the battle field to which treason invited the nation Our heroic defenders amid the storm of shot and shell and flame on the sea as well as on the shore had triumphantly decided that our star gilded banner should never become the winding sheet of the world's best hopes But after their conflicts and their sacrifices, it remained for the people at the ballot box, and the people's Representatives and Senators in these halls of legislation, to guard the Republic effectually against another rebellion drenching the land in blood, and after this terrible contest for national existence, to reconstruct on such an enduring corner stone, that posterity should realize to the latest syllable of recorded time, that our fallen heroes had not died in vain

But four months ago we left the Capitol, and yet how crowded with events The bloody, wicked massacre at New Orleans the very week after our adjournment, and the extraordinary speech of the President at St Louis, palliating the guilt of the murderers, and charging the grave responsibility on the Congress of the United States The two great Philadelphia Conventions, one memorable for the frank acknowledgment that those who denounced Congress were really arm in arm with the men who, trampling on broken oaths, had sought to destroy the nation's life, and the other honored by the presence of the faithful loyalists who, when the storm of treason swept over their States refused to bow their knee to Baalism The expulsion from office of thousands trusted and commissioned by our martyred President to whom more than any other equal number of men, the present Administration was indebted for the power it wielded, their crime being inflexible fidelity to the principles professed by the successful candidate for Vice President in the canvass of 1864 The hundreds of speeches of this Presidential tour throughout the land, and their republication in millions of copies of all our prominent press, bringing the issues to the hearth stones of every voter The magnificent response of the people from ocean to ocean condemning the policy of which they had heard so much, and attesting their unshaken confidence in Congress which had stood so faithfully so fearlessly and so immovable in the pathway of duty and right

How rapidly have we been making history in the past few months! Thank God, in this land the people are the only rulers! Every two years they resume their sovereignty and by the ballot box they make and unmake Congress, and they approve or condemn administrations They command us in Congress and the President must obey

We return, then, to these halls to carry out and enforce the decision of the rulers of the nation—the people No man can misunderstand their will Four points have been settled by them beyond controversy

First—That the work of reconstruction must be in the hands of those who have been the friends not the enemies, of the nation

Second—That it must be based on the granite of loyalty, and not on the quicksands of disloyalty, and that with the privilege and immunities of the liberty granted by the whole nation to all the people

Third—That no person shall be disfranchised in this Republic on account of their race and yet have their numbers counted to confer increased political power in those disfranchising them

Fourth—That the national debt the cost of our national existence, shall be forever sacred, and that all debts or claims growing out of the rebellion, or the breaking of fetters that ended it, shall be forever held illegal and void and the people also declared, as their desire and will, that Congress should enforce this decision of theirs by appropriate legislation

Free as these few but vital points were from every consideration of revenge or malice, looking only as they did to public justice and the public safety, and even more generous than just, it was certainly to have been expected that if there was in the region where those who had warred on the country so bitterly, and returning love for the Union, any sorrow for their crimes, the essential requirements would have been assented to completely, or if not promptly, as soon as the elections had manifested the nation's will

But on the contrary, they are spurned and scornfully neglected by those who control public opinions and wield political power in the South, and the recent election of the most conspicuous secessionists in North Carolina, Alabama and Arkansas, &c , with the hostile messages of their Governors, and defiant replies rejecting the constitutional amendment, show that they insist on representation in Congress and the electoral college for all their four million of slaves thus according to them an enlarged and increased law making power, in consequence of the rebellion, while at the same time they not only disfranchise them of their rights and protection of citizenship by disgraceful and oppressive laws pretending to regulate labor contracts and to punish vagrancy, reducing those whom the nation made freemen to a subserviency and serfdom, but little better than slavery itself While we cannot compel them to approve the Constitutional Amendment, our duty to the nation, to justice, to liberty and to humanity is none the less, and as the exponents of the people's will as we are, we cannot avoid that duty Indeed we may see in it the finger of Providence Like our forefathers, in the past few years we have builded better than we knew

In the earlier stages of the war how willingly would an overwhelming majority of the people consented to perpetuate slavery in the Republic if Southern traitors had taken from our lips the bloody chalice of civil war which they compelled us to drain to its very dregs But God willed otherwise and at last when every family altar had been crimsoned with blood, and every cemetery and churchyard crowded with patriot graves, the nation rose in a higher duty, and resolved in these halls that slavery should die Then the storm cloud passed away God's smile shone on our patriots Victory after victory blessed our gallant armies, and the crowning triumph was won that gave salvation to the Union and freedom to our lives

Since then we have been earnestly struggling for reconstruction to come on an enduring and loyal foundation Stumbling blocks have impeded our progress and when at last a mild and magnanimous proposition is made, embodying no confiscation, no banishment, no penalties of offended law, we are baffled by a hardening of heart against it as inexplicable as it seems irremovable

Does it not seem as if again the Creator is leading us in His way rather than our own, and as we turn for light does it not flash upon us that He again requires the nation to conquer its prejudices, for He that is so far above us has put all human beings under an equality before the divine law and called them His children He demands that we shall put all under an equality before the human law, so that every one in the region poisoned by the influence of slavery and the principles of treason shall be clothed with all the rights necessary for the fullest and surest protection against tyranny and wrong and not left defenseless at the mercy of those who so long exhibited no mercy to the Government they sought to destroy

The question naturally arises, how can this be done? Surrounded by the able jurists patriots statesmen returning here as they do crowned with an unparalleled popular endorsement, it might not be fitting to anticipate their arguments on these vital themes in the session just opening But when the Constitution declares in its opening sentence that all legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States when it solemnly declares that the United States shall guarantee to every State in the Union a republican form of government, and when it gives to Congress full authority to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution all the powers vested by the Constitution in the Government of the United States or in any department or officer thereof, the duty and its exercises both seem to have been specifically anticipated by the framers of our supreme law Since President Johnson declared in May 18[illegible] the rebellion had destroyed all the civil governments in the rebellious States Congress has recognized none of the governments established under the authority of military law, except the rebel disfranchising government of the State of Tennessee It was yet to settle the question under the oaths of its members to support and defend the Constitution whether those provincial and unrecognized governments in which those who have been the bitterest enemies of the republic are dominant in the executive legislative and judicial departments where to have been a soldier of the Union, either living or dead, is a reproach where devotion to the lost cause of treason is openly avowed and by the guaranty of popular favor, where the colors and the heroes of the rebellion are enthusiastically hailed, and where citizenship is refused the only people in their midst who as a class have been loyal which are not republican forms of government, which it is the duty of the United States to guarantee and protect

Leaving this and kindred questions to those who will so ably discuss them can we not all here as loyal and patriotic and justice loving citizens vow for us and our children a vow for justice and humanity, to be registered in heaven—that there shall be

> No black laws in our borders
> No pirates on our strand,
> No traitors in our Congress
> No slave in the land?

A Necessary Law

The peril of unbounded Executive patronage is so great and the Constitutional provision upon the subject is so plain, that we hope there is no doubt of the regulation of the matter by precise law during the present session Mr Trumbull's bill of the last winter or a substitute, should be again offered, and the reasons which prevented its passage then we do not believe now exist The point to settle is, that no officer nominated by the President shall enter upon his duties except after confirmation by the Senate

At present if the President nominates a person and the Senate rejects him, the President has only to wait until the Senate adjourns, when he may appoint him to hold over to the end of the next session of the Senate, when he may again appoint him In this way the intention of the Constitution is directly defeated, and the President virtually dispenses with the Senate. This is a subject which should be settled at once, nor can it demand much discussion Every American citizen is interested in the reduction of the Executive patronage, which tends to exaggerate the Executive power to a wholly disproportionate degree Every party is equally interested, for the defection of one man who happened to be President will throw the whole power of the Government patronage against the party which is in power, and so thwart the intention of the people

The enormous Executive patronage is not merely a direct but an indirect power A President who deserts his party not only rewards his late opponents, whose principles the people have repudiated in his own election, but he demoralizes the party which he leaves This was the undoubted political intention of President Johnson and his advisers They hoped to retain enough Union men in office to weaken and break the Union ranks, while they fed enough of the opposition to whet their appetite for more The failure was signal but the disgrace of the conspicuous office holders who gave themselves to the work will not be forgotten, and the danger of the experiment is none the less evident

It seems to us also, that the tenure of many, and probably of most, of the offices might be wisely changed There is no good patriotic reason, although those of party are as plenty as blackberries, why the term of office should not be long enough to overlap the Presidential election This would not wholly obviate the party interest of officers in the Administration which appointed them, but it would tend constantly to weaken it, and to make honest capacity count more as a qualification for office The difficulty with a life-tenure of public office is its tendency to indolence and inefficiency A very honest man may be so slow and vexatious an officer that the public might demand his removal for inefficiency. But if such a petition were to be sufficient ground of removal, the party use that would be made of it is evident.

The subject requires prompt action to remedy an increasing and perilous evil,—Harper's Weekly

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD —Of the progress of this road the Chicago Tribune says:

The Union Pacific Railroad Company have laid down all the iron at their present disposal, and finding it difficult to obtain it rapidly enough by way of the Missouri river to keep their force employed, have determined to cease further operations until next spring They have completed the bridge across the North Fork and laid their track over it, so as to deliver mails, freight and passengers to Holliday's Overland Stage Line on the west side of the river, and now their workmen are encamped on that side, awaiting the recommencement of operations on the road. The preparations for the resumption of their work are made with the same energy and enterprise which have characterized their progress thus far, and there appears at present no reason to doubt the realization of the hopes of Mr Durant, that they will have 300 miles more completed by the time of the grand Northwestern Railway Excursion in June next A contract has been made with the Northwestern Railroad Company to carry the iron and other needed material for the construction of the Union Pacific Railroad over the rails of the former, in cars owned by the latter, at very reasonable rates, and the contractors for track laying are ready to engage to finish the road next spring, at any rate required by the Company, not to exceed three miles per diem Either Denver or a point due north Mr Durant is confident of reaching in 100 working days from the time of recommencing the westward movement which will probably be in the latter part of February or the first of March From the present terminus of the road to the meridian on which Denver is located is about 300 miles, so that to make that distance in the allotted time the unparalleled spectacle will be afforded of steadily and continuously constructing a railway at the rate of three miles per diem

Soon after the battle of Pittsburg Landing, in the Spring of 1862, large supplies of filtered rain water were forwarded to the army near Corinth, by the Sanitary Commission for the use of the sick and wounded Several barrels of this water were sent to the 10th Indiana regiment, the heads of which barrels bore the inscription "XX Old Rye Whisky" Now there happened to be in the 10th regiment a soldier familiarly known as "Quart," who was alike distinguished for his love of fun and an inordinate partiality for intoxicating beverages The sight of the brand on the barrels lying in the rear of the Colonel's tent led Quart into an error, he doubted not the correctness of the label, and lingered lovingly around headquarters He resolved to make a "raid" on the "Sanitary Stores" under the cover of darkness He accordingly waited with considerable impatience until after the tattoo roll call in the evening, and having seen the last light in the camp extinguished, he noiselessly crept to the rear of the Colonel's quarters armed with three canteens and a half inch gimlet He reached without being observed the place where the precious stores were deposited, soon bored a hole in one of the barrels filled his canteens hurriedly and started back to his quarters, before reaching which, however he stopped and took a "pull" at the contents of one of the canteens Smacking his lips doubtingly, Quart raised the canteen to his mouth again and took another drink. Then, soliloquizing in so loud a tone that he was distinctly heard by the sentinel of the campguard on the nearest post, he said "Well I voted an unscratched Democratic ticket for fifteen years but if this is whisky, by the powers I've lost my taste"

The late John Van Buren was noted like Falstaff for being "of infinite jest" It is told of him that he was once angrily accosted by a suitor whose case he had overthrown with "I believe sir you would take a fee from the greatest scoundrel on earth" "Softly my dear sir" half whispered Van Buren with well affected concern "walk aside until me, if you please Now sir" presenting his ear to the man, "tell what you have been doing!"

In view of the rumor that Confederate notes are again coming in to circulation in the remote South the Mobile Times says "We can add that Mobile wood dealers will take them even—cord for cord If this be treason make the most of it"

The Chicago Press

There is no city in America where there is so much newspaper enterprise as in the city of Chicago Each of the three morning papers here the Times, Tribune and Republican, publish as much Associated Press news as any journal in New York and three times as many special dispatches The specials of each of the papers mentioned cost them on an average about $20 000 per year for telegraphing, besides the expense of having the intelligence gathered by reporters in various parts of the country They pay better salaries, too, here on newspapers than on any other press in the country—unless it be on the first class journals in California And yet the pay is not so fearfully high as one might infer The evening papers pay their reporters from $15 to $25 per week, the morning papers from $15 $30 much better than is paid in New York, though not enough to make a man think he will get rich in a year Editors are paid from $30 to $50 per week the best writers getting something more The Tribune is the oldest paper in the city and has the largest circulation of any, though the Times has nearly come up to it since the war The Tribune had an enormous circulation during the war, but it has fallen off at least one-half since the war closed It is not so great a newspaper, either as it formerly was though its influence as a political journal is second to none in America, unless it be the New York Tribune Its management is less vigorous since Mr Bross became Lieutenant-Governor of the State He gives no attention whatever to the paper now, except in an advisory capacity Its advertising patronage is four times as large as that of any paper in Chicago, and the institution altogether is one of the best paying journals in the country

The Times has recently built a magnificent new office with all the modern improvements, and has adopted the quarto form. It is a remarkably enterprising journal, and pays handsomely. Its recent change of base in coming out boldly for negro suffrage has helped wonderfully Its circulation has nearly doubled with in a month

The Republican is an exceedingly bright and enterprising journal, and conducted with consummate ability, but it is a disastrous failure as a financial investment It started out in life with a golden spoon in its mouth. C A Dana, who had won a great reputation as a journalist on the N Y. Tribune, was hired, at a salary of $10,000 a year, to manage it It had a capital of $150,000, and began business with peculiarly bright and flattering prospects. It was made a great newspaper in every respect Its corps of telegraphic, literary, gossiping and news correspondents was larger and better than any journal in America, its editorial and reportorial force was noted for its brilliancy, and the newspaper fairly blazed in the journalistic firmament But the people would not support it. The staid old Tribune occupied the field that the Republican has leaped into with such vigor The Tribune was, perhaps, not quite so brilliant as its rival, but eminently reliable, ably edited, and was chock full of news The loyal men of the Northwest stood by the Tribune, and in less than a year the Republican's Bengal light had faded to a tallow dip At the end of the first year Dana deserted the sinking ship, and it kept going down The original capital had vanished, and heavy drafts were being made on the stockholders Two months after Dana left, four of the best men on the Tribune bought up the stock for a song, got a rich banker at Springfield, Ill, to go in with them and began to renew the efforts to make it a paying newspaper. It pitches savagely into the Tribune, and shows an immense amount of dash and enterprise, but it still loses money heavily. The young men from the Tribune have sunk all their money, if they ever had any, and the Springfield millionaire banker experiences a very heavy drain on his vaults It is a model newspaper, but there is no field for it here, and it is utterly impossible for it to pay The Tribune moves along in the even tenor of its way, gets all the subscribers and good advertising, and smiles at the frantic attempts of its youthful rival to run it off the track.

We have two evening papers here, the Journal and the Post The former is a good newspaper and pays well; the latter is impecunious. The Post was started in opposition to the Journal; but its opposition amounts to nothing. No people know better than Californians how natural it is for an opposition to spring up against successful financial enterprises But they are usually short-lived, and of little moment while they do live

Impeachment

Impeachment, so long talked of, is at last broached in Congress It assumes at once a shape that is quite formidable but we can scarcely believe that the proceedings will come to a successful termination, or in other words that they will result in degrading the President from office But President Johnson is not so fixed in the esteem of the people that successful impeachment will excite much sympathy for his misfortunes It is not from any feeling of this sort that the loyal millions would have their representatives refrain While they feel that the President's official conduct is deserving of the severest reprehension and while a majority of them doubtless feel that he deserves impeachment for his misdemeanors many would prefer to suffer this already disgraced man to fill out his term rather than see the country thrown into commotion by his removal from office But we do not believe that the action of Congress will be greatly deprecated by those by whose votes that body was elected Though the President's removal from office would be productive of intense excitement throughout the country, there is no reason to believe that it would lead to violence, or a renewal of civil strife The action of Congress is regular and constitutional, and in all its proceedings the law will be strictly followed But in all probability the proceedings will not go beyond the action of the Judiciary Committee. A greater number of persons, however, will agree with the New York Tribune, that impeachment however much deserved, will do no good, than will be found to agree with the New York Herald in the declaration that Johnson has done nothing more to deserve impeachment than any of his partisan predecessors

A New Atlantic Cable.

The New York Tribune of December 7th states that

On the 6th the Chamber of Commerce of that city adopted a resolution looking to the importance of sounding the Atlantic for a new telegraph cable to connect America with the western coast of France and the European Continent The estimated cost is $6,000,000, but as the English line cost only $3,000,000, the Tribune thinks the proposed European line can be laid for less than is estimated The project is to run the new line from Cape Cod or Montauk Point to the city of Brest, in France

The New York correspondence of the Alta California, written a few days later, contains the following:

A new cable is seriously talked of in this city and the project meets with great favor among all classes of our community. Some are in favor of laying one immediately from this city to Brest France, the seaport of Havre, and this would undoubtedly be well received and favorably entertained by the French Government Others argue that the experience of the present existing Cable Company should teach its projectors a lesson of caution in the matter, as the enterprise would be as liable to meet with failure as the first attempts of the English Atlantic cable Still others hold that it would be well to wait a short time, as they believe that this end of the present line will rest on our own soil before many months, but yet do not state exactly how it can be brought about At the session of the Chamber of Commerce the other day the general tenor of the remarks being decidedly in favor of a purely American cable Mr Field says that the present Company will next year undoubtedly attach another cable to the present one near Newfoundland, and connect it directly with this city. Should this be done—and he will make the proposition to the Company in England with in a few weeks—our merchants would be found to be quite unwilling to invest their capital in an undertaking the immediate success of which would be problematical

A Charleston Target.—During the siege of Charleston the tall spire of St. Michael's church was often singled out by the men who manned Gilmore's "Swamp Angel," as a target, but they never yet struck it, according to the Charleston Courier, which says that the spire is yet unharmed, though the walls are fractured by shells The old church has been renovated, and a costly stained glass window, from Boston, adorns the church. The Courier adds

It will, perhaps, not be amiss in this connection to state that the chime of bells which were sent to their original foundry in England, to be remoulded, have been shipped from Liverpool, and are now daily expected The citizens of Charleston will once more be regaled by the sweet sound of their old and loved bells, and the Sabbath will have more of an air of sanctity than it has long enjoyed, when the call to prayer is sounded by the brazen tongues. St. Michael's is the oldest church now standing in the city It was designed by Sir Christopher Wren, the architect of St Paul's London. The cornerstone was laid in 1752, and ten years was occupied in its erection, public service not being held in it until the 1st of February, 1762 All of the material used in its construction was imported from abroad, even the wood, mostly cypress and cedar, being brought from the Bermudas

The Meteors—English papers bring us accounts of the display of meteors, which, it seems occurred, as was anticipated by astronomers, and was visible in Great Britain, though not in this country. The shower was very brilliant, and last several hours The London Express says

Many of the meteors appeared to have a yellowish light, others a deep red So near to us did some of them appear that their resemblance to rockets occurred to every one, and we almost seemed to listen for the rush through the air During the transit of the meteors the light of the other stars was scarcely to be noticed. The noiseless course gave a thrill that no artificial splendors could produce In some cases the passage was brief and the light faint, in others, a large portion of the sky was traversed, and the luminousness both prolonged and intense The soft gliding motion, if such a term may be employed, was a striking characteristic

Johnson's friends reason that the declaration that the object of the war was to preserve the Union with the rights and dignity of the States unimpaired, prevented the Government from imposing any penalties of rebellion upon States or individuals And yet he overturned the State Governments, and he pretends to hold nine different classes of rebels subject to his suspended pardoning power

Two years ago that parasite of Johnson's who runs the "official organ," asserted that the "qualifications of Andrew Johnson for the Presidency or Vice Presidency were precisely those of General Lee or Jefferson Davis" Doubtless this is one reason why A Johnson now has the fellow's support.

The bloody Judge Abel of New Orleans declares that the late Louisiana Convention was an unlawful assembly Therefore argues the Judge the rebels of New Orleans did perfectly right in massacring its members, and a couple of hundred unoffending negroes besides

A Narrow Escape—The following is from the New York correspondence of the Springfield Republican

Speaking of politics reminds me of an incident of the riots of 1863 related to me by an eye witness You remember the Tribune office had been threatened and was defended by armed men The afternoon that Governor Seymour addressed the mob from the steps of the Astor House one of the defenders of the Tribune, a dead shot stood in the window with a telescopic rifle aimed at Seymour's head If the unscrupulous demagogue had said anything to excite the mob the intention of our rifleman was to shoot him on the spot and he would have done it beyond a question Fortunately for Seymour he only sought to conciliate the insurgents, and so escaped with his life It is not probable that the crafty politician ever knew how near he came to having a ball lodged in his skull and it may be that his good genius stepped between him and his natural disposition on that memorable and melancholy day

It is estimated that there are 100 000 cripples in England of whom 30 000 are girls The births of cripples average 3,000 yearly

The Dead Copperhead Carcass Unmercifully Kicked—Remarkable Article from the Mobile Tribune

The Democratic party is in bad odor with its Southern friends, who kick and cuff it in the most unceremonious manner This is ungrateful, for that poor old organization has abased itself as a party never did before in order that Southern traitors might be exalted

The Memphis Bulletin can find no words sufficient to express its contempt and scorn of the beaten and dishonored Democracy The Vicksburg Whig follows in the same strain Leading organs in Virginia, Georgia and Louisiana give it the cold shoulder And away down at Mobile the saucy Tribune takes up the cudgel, and thus unmercifully belabors the party which only a few weeks since it fondly hoped would restore the rebellion to power

During the war—that is, in the early part of it—those Democrats told us that the South had been true to the Constitution and the statutes and that the heel of no enemy should be put on our necks, while there were men—Democratic men—to carry muskets or to make swarthes of enemies by their grand broadswords They told us this in various stealthy ways and the news came to us by all kinds of contraband channels They said, in effect "Hold fast! Stand to your guns! We are a power in those fanatical Radical States We can manage the rascals, if you rely on us Those rascals cannot shoot a gun we have not the complement of"

The Democratic leaders told us this during the war We did not much rely on it, for we had the work to do ourselves, without reference to exterior help, although we did rejoice when the French Emperor indited a desire to interpose and was ready to interpose, if Great Britain would give the word G B did not give the word, and we had therefore, to strive and starve on not much that is good for armies—improvised cannon, some guns which escaped the blockade—a good deal of powder which one might put into his grate to warm himself by And for the rest, bacon with worms in it, and what is properly called hard tack—something in the nature of granite

All this we had—and the sympathy of the Democratic party of the North—Vallandigham for example—really about the only self respecting, true man that we know of in all that great northern hive of anger and revengefulness with no disposition to mercy!

The same Democratic party relied on the South to help it to influence In the recent elections they cast the die Here, they said, we shall get strength enough to fetch our brethren of the South into the Government When we shall have accomplished this, we shall have a power that will make the veto of the President potent The President was born a Democrat—took the Democratic idea from his mother's milk—is nothing but a Democrat—bred on a tailor's bench and knows no one so He will stand with us when we shall have shown him that we have sent to Congress men enough to buoy him up in his honest endeavor to make the "Constitution as it was," respectable

That Democratic party, so called, has deluded the South—foolish South, which was looking all around everywhere to find some help in its great and distressing emergency Foolish South didn't find it in France or England and didn't and can not, as well as we are trying to see, find it in the Democratic party of the North We think that it is a notable and well approved fact that rats leave a sinking ship We are sure they scent the weakness of a house on land, and quit it in double quick, as Gen Butler got from Ball's Bluff and Fort Fisher—not staying to see how the thing was going, but going away without standing on the order of his going

As Butler did, so it appears to us the Democratic party is doing It stuck to the President as long as it thought he might be made the instrument of its getting into the fat places which, at Washington, yield so much oil and blubber fat that makes people who are so fortunate as to get at the consumption of it, fine houses, little fortunes or big ones, and readily brings them into historical notoriety, whether for stealing or some thing else is what we have not the means of saying

We know this, however—for has not the telegraph told us?—that Fernando Wood, elect to Congress, has "come out" for what is called "impartial suffrage" The bruiser Morrissey—who has no great amount of expression in him—isn't he on that side, too? We should wager our old hat that he is there on that side working for reconstruction under a rule that they, too, and all the rest, were battling against, in their small way, not three months ago And then there is a paper of vast influence at the West called the Chicago Times It has turned head over heels within ten days, and assures the world and the rest of mankind that there is no possible hope for the salvation of the Democratic party except by joining the radicals in insisting on the amendment to the Constitution which is so troubling our people

The Democratic party intends to take care of itself, without regard to the South, which as it now appears, cannot now give it any possible help We must do the best we can for ourselves—give anything or nothing but the Democratic party intends to "cut" President Johnson, and fight by itself for the spoils—for, as it thinks, he is "no where," and of course it cannot go nowhere with him Let him take care of the truth, which is not a merchantable party commodity We shall take care of ourselves, without reference to his tenacity for the right, indifferent whether it lead to ruin or not

This is about what the Democratic party is saying Let it go its way We owe nothing to it, except a vast amount of Radical unkindness, which it stimulated and made active and unreasonable

Let us say another word We are not entirely certain that we are right in saying it It is that to day we should throw ourselves on that Radical party—we do not mean the extremes of it—rather than rely on the Democratic party, which seems to us to be trimming its sails to any breeze which may help to carry it to some port where its cargo of avidity for the spoils may be made saleable and profitable We are sorry to say this, but one must tell what there is of truth within him, when he feels obliged to speak

In a preface to this very interesting article, the Tribune reiterates an assertion made some days before, that it is willing to accept impartial suffrage as a basis of reconstruction

The Mountain Scenery of India—We reached the bungalow, at the top of Ram Ghaut before the heat became oppressive, and after breakfast while the doctor lay down to rest my brother and I, being both tolerably sun proof strolled out among the woods in search of game and the picturesque This was my first introduction to mountain scenery in India and the magnificent view we enjoyed from the top of the pass fully realized the expectations I had formed of it Standing on a projecting spur of the mountain range some 4 000 feet above the level of the plain we looked directly down into the gloomy depth of the forest that clothes the sides and surrounds the base of the Ghauts, and beyond this the eye ranged for leagues over the richly wooded country of the Concan till groves and temples and palm trees and villages faded away in the distance, and became blended with the mysterious copper colored haze that shrouded the horizon A silence deeper than that of midnight reigned around Nature appeared to faint under the intolerable glare of an Indian noon and the very air as if sick with heat seemed to have lost all power of motion The beasts of the forest had plunged into the deepest thickets to seek for shade the birds dozed upon the boughs the innumerable insects at other times so noisy were now so silent and the only living things that appeared to be in motion were the beautiful little lizards in their gorgeous livery of green enamel and gold, who far from shunning the glare lay basking on the heated rocks or darted about in search of their insect food, like animated sunbeams—Col Campbell's Indian Journal

Atlantic and Pacific Railroad

GEN FREMONT ON THE ROUTE NATURE OF THE COUNTRY, CLIMATE PRODUCTS ETC

At a meeting of Commissioners held in St Louis Mo, Oct 1st Gen Fremont President, on taking the chair addressed the Board of Commissioners

Gentlemen—Before taking the chair I wish to say a few words and first of all I wish to make you my very sincere thanks for the honor you have done me in naming me your President The duties I have to fill will be very congenial to me Although in this early stage of our proceedings the duties of your Board and its officers are simply those of organizing the means for building our Pacific Railway still they are of the same general nature and go to the same end They may therefore enable me to give some useful light to the labor of many years undertaken with the same object and I thank you sincerely for giving me the opportunity to do so

It becomes now our first duty to ask from the country at large a subscription to our capital stock and will be there for necessary to make the proposed Atlantic and Pacific Railway well known to the public This being to day our initial point, it will, I think be suitable to present concisely the character of our enterprise and to set out the elements of success upon which we rely

By a recent act of Congress the line of the road is laid in south western Missouri and the valley of the Canadian and generally along the thirty fifth parallel to the head of navigation on the head of the Colorado, and thence to the Pacific coast To aid in its construction the act grants over [illegible] 000 acres of land to the mile making for the entire route about forty six millions of acres Its really central position makes the line national We believe that it will prove to be the shortest and it certainly presents fewer natural obstacles and is the most practicable of all the proposed routes to the Pacific From Springfield to San Francisco its estimated length is 1 800 miles making for the distance from St Louis about 2 000, and from New York, by way of Memphis to San Francisco the distance is 3 [illegible]00 making a difference of 500 miles in favor of this route

It is singularly direct and easy of construction lying for the most part in the valleys of streams It is not obstructed by mountain chains, other than the low ranges bordering the valley of the Rio del Norte Some 100 miles west of St Louis it crosses the Arkansas river where it is still navigable, giving again an opening to the Mississippi river It passes through the heart of New Mexico at Albuquerque, securing to itself a valuable way traffic and it affords the site for an important city at the head of navigation on the Colorado river, where the Great Basin is opened to the Gulf coast and the ocean It enters California without crossing mountains and without going over snow at any season, passing around what was called in the familiar language of trapper days the Point of Mountain skirting and avoiding the Sierra Nevadas that great storehouse of California, teeming with its abundant stores of mineral wealth, living streams and noble forests but formidable in its engineering difficulties There are certainly most striking advantages in the location of this road but only as respects the facilities which they afford in building it It is proposed to add others equally important by a branch road from Albuquerque to Guaymas

Throughout the greatest part of its length and conspicuously in its division, it offers rich soil and good climate wood and water For hundreds of miles together the agricultural beauty of its lands is fully equal to any in the entire West soil and climate together giving a broad range for cultivation from wheat and barley corn and cotton to sugar and coffee wine and opium Southward it opens out into immense pastures where the climate is very favorable to animal life and specially to the raising of large flocks of sheep Enterprising men are already securing large bodies of land in New Mexico and Arizona for this purpose and the transportation of herds and flocks to the Eastern markets will be an important part of the business of the road

In the regions traversed by it the Summers are temperate, long and dry the Winters short and mild In the Eastern division there are no high mountains or naked plains to disturb the equable and agreeable temperature belonging to the latitude There are no swamps of overflowed land and the census report of 1850 shows this region to be one of the most healthy in the United States

Very many of the most useful minerals and metals are found dispersed over the different sections, occurring sometimes in extraordinary force The masses of iron and rich lead mines are familiarly known Beds of coal occur in different places salt in all its various conditions is found in great abundance, ores of gold and silver indicating great richness, and some of them have already given great yield are found in the middle and Western sections, with black lead and quicksilver, with massive beds of copper, equal in richness to any known on the continent, occur directly on the line of the road From the neighboring mines of the Gila, years ago, copper was transported in wagons to the city of Chihuahua, the copper and silver it contained paying all the expenses of transportation This undeveloped wealth, the healthfulness of the climate, and the great agricultural value of the land enable us conscientiously to invite emigrants to occupy them, and we have abundant reason to believe they will be speedily settled, and that we will pour a continuous stream of emigration over the line We have a most satisfactory earnest of this in the first installment of Scandinavian emigrants to the lands of the South west Pacific, which is of course only a part of the great road. And it is well here to say that the policy of the road will be to give all possible protection to the emigrants on their arrival, to see that they are properly cared for, that they are placed on good lands in good situations and that the influence of the road will be exerted for their benefit wherever it can aid their interests

California to day, seems to be at a pause in its population, and consequently perhaps in its prosperity The great distance of the voyage and the time required to make it tell very unfavorably But with the building of this road, a new impulse will be given and a new era begun The American shores of the Pacific and the neighboring shores of Mexico would be crowded with population The opposite Asiatic shore is the great reservoir of a trade and wealth which has fertilized and enriched wherever it has flowed It is teeming with ideas and processes in the arts and manufactures, in greater part, wholly unknown to us In the enjoyment of the trade, developed to the uttermost by our enterprise and great maritime resources, in the interchange of new ideas and in the blending together of two civilizations—the newest and the oldest—we may expect our Western States to reach an unexampled prosperity

The people of the Asiatic shore had the problem of fitting crowded population to insufficient soil Ours has been the reverse In the unrestricted intercourse we shall surely give great advantages by applying to our immense unused resources the finish of detail and the perfection of economy which they have been compelled to practice In return we shall confer great benefits on them, and we shall undoubtedly do a grand missionary work by carrying among them the advanced ideas of our social and political conditions

These gentlemen, are some of the advantages which we are able to offer to men who are disposed to make new fortunes or establish new homes upon our road, and these are some of the benefits which we hope to secure to the country and in doing so to justify the liberality of Congress to us

For ourselves we have enough to stimulate our best exertions in the fact that we shall be among the sharers in this large prosperity, in this creating of new industry, this opening out of new channels of commerce, this peopling of millions of acres of waste lands this great part in the building up out of all the nations a new one and giving its people homes under a government which secures to every individual of them the fruits of his industry and an open field for the full display of his powers limited only by his own capacity, under a government which is indestructible because founded in the intelligent will of its people its vitality is constantly renewed and can never die while there are hearts and minds of men living for it to act upon

This gentlemen is about as much as I feel required to say The subject is vast, and I could only touch upon outlines but when I look around on the men engaged in this work I feel that they have the capacity to grasp the subject and all its details and put them into practical shape I recognize in their well known ability and experience the surest guarantee for the success of our work I thank you again gentlemen for associating me with yourselves in a manner so agreeable and so honorable to me

Statistics of the Country—A statistical work is now in preparation under the supervision of the director of the Bureau of Statistics at Washington will embrace accurate statements of our national statistics of every description—territory population mobilization and internal communication, industries finances army navy and sociology Under the direction of this bureau only two months established the annual report of commerce and navigation hitherto from one to two years behind will this year be ready in time The publication of a monthly report of commerce and navigation will be commenced immediately

From the frequent and general attacks upon Pollard's Lost Cause by Southern journals it is evident that this the chief war history of the Confederacy, is a failure

The Nation's Income

The figures of the report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue present the strongest possible proof of the ability of the country to sustain and pay its present debt The total amount raised from this source of taxation is $310 [illegible] 381 17 an amount the Commissioner informs us, within twenty two millions of the total revenue of the British Empire and far in excess of the amount raised from similar taxes in that country This is an increase over the proceeds of the last official year of nearly ninety millions An analysis of this amount presents no less cause of rejoicing The tax on iron and steel notwithstanding its reduction has produced $11 [illegible] 133 16 an increase of four and a half millions over last year. Petroleum pays $[illegible] 31 [illegible] an increase of nearly two and a quarter millions tobacco and cigars nearly sixteen millions, an increase of over four millions while spirits notwithstanding the evasions of the law of which the Commissioner complains and almost despairs unless a self registering still be invented produce $19 138,[illegible] 81[illegible] an increase of over thirteen millions and the three months that have elapsed since the close of the fiscal year show a more than corresponding increase in the tax arising from this article A yet more remarkable increase is seen in the growth of the returns of the income tax from $20 567 [illegible] 26 to $60 [illegible] 115 95 and through a portion of these returns arises in each year from the incomes of previous years the continued progress of this item from eleven to twenty and thence to sixty millions cannot fail to be taken as a mark of continued prosperity The Commissioner among his recommendations at the conclusion of the report suggests the increase of the amount exempted from this tax to $1,000

Other sources from which this great sum is derived are the Banks and Insurance Companies paying over nine millions the Railroads giving nearly three and a half millions on capital and mortgage dividends fifteen millions from stamps eighteen millions from licenses over five millions from fermented liquors while cotton clothing legacies leather, pianos patent medicines, and a host of minor articles swell the list. The cost of collecting this revenue has been something over seven millions being less than two and one half per cent on the total amount collected

The Commissioner recommends but few changes though some are important The chief are the change of the return day for the annual list (Schedule C, licenses and incomes) to the beginning of the year a revision of the system under which cigars are taxed some modifications of the Stamp act and of the relations of the offices to the District Attorneys Most important is, to reduce the number of taxable articles

The receipts for the coming year the Commissioner after a careful consideration of the facts before him believes will reach two hundred and eighty five millions a figure more likely to be under than over the truth He says in conclusion that the immense revenue of the last fiscal year was raised with probably less pressure upon the people than that of smaller amounts in previous years Their enterprise and spirit of accumulation have prevented the depression of business which ordinarily attends heavy taxation Their means for the ultimate extinction of the national debt are rapidly multiplying from the increase of population and the constant development of new sources of wealth The reduction of taxes will stimulate production, and in a few years the national debt will cease to be an object of anxiety or even annoyance to a great and united people N Y Tribune

Northwestern Boundary Commission—Judge B R Curtis of Boston has been selected as umpire of the commission consisting of Rose of Montreal and Johnson of Albany N Y to arrange indemnities arising under the settlement of the northwestern boundary between the American possessions of Great Britain and the United States The interests of the Hudson Bay Company are involved in this commission

Henry S Foote the whilom erratic Senator from Tennessee in the Confederate Congress has emerged from his unusually long retirement to write a letter He addressed it to Governor Sharkey of Mississippi Ex Senator Foote thinks that the panacea for all our national ills is a National Convention The old man grows classic and and eloquent over the prospect of such a convention assembling

MIXED UP AFFAIRS—The Republic of Mexico is in a perfect muddle about her political affairs almost as much so as the different kinds of merchandise are mixed up in the different stores in this city KOHN & FISHEL, at the St Louis store, have kept a good stock of dry goods heretofore but are anxious to confine their trade hereafter only to clothing and goods for gentlemen's wear therefore they offer all kinds of dry goods and everything for ladies' wear far below cost, of which everybody can be convinced by pricing their goods

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN is published this morning. It contains the latest telegraphic news from the East and California—a selection of the best articles appearing in THE DAILY OREGONIAN—full and reliable news from the Mines, and the most copious commercial information published by any paper in the State.

The average amount of reading matter in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN is double that published by any other journal in Oregon and in the particular of Commercial statistics and the Markets we aim to make it the most reliable, more especially in matters pertaining to Oregon interests.

☞ Single copies 12½ cents, or $3 00 per year, to any part of the United States, or British Columbia.

The following is a synopsis of Regulations relating to Inland and Foreign Postage:

On all letters 3 cents for each half ounce or fraction thereof. Circulars, unsealed, 2 cents each. On all transient printed matter, (Books and Circulars excepted) and all Seeds, Cuttings, etc., Pamphlets, Book MSS and Proof Sheets, Maps, Engravings, Blanks, Patterns, Envelopes and Photographs, contained in one package, to one address, 2 cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof. On all matter not above specified, same rate as letters. No package will be forwarded which weighs over 4 pounds, except books published and circulated by order of Congress. Valuable letters may be registered by application at the office of mailing, and the payment of a registration fee of 20 cents. On letters to Canada and other British North American Provinces, Victoria and Vancouver Island, 10 cents for each half ounce, and must be prepaid. To Great Britain or Ireland 24 cents for each half ounce, pre-payment optional. To France, 15 cents for each quarter ounce, prepayment optional. To the German States, by Prussian closed mails pre-paid, 28 cents, unpaid, 30 cents. Letters to other foreign countries vary in rate according to the route by which they are sent, and the proper information can be obtained at the Postmaster. All letters sent within the limits of the United States must be prepaid fully one rate of 3 cents; otherwise, they are held for postage and sent to the Dead Letter Office in Washington.

The Portland Postoffice is a Money Order Office. Any office may draw upon any other office in the list of money order offices, for a sum upon one order, from one dollar to fifty dollars; but when a larger sum than the latter is required, additional orders to make it up must be obtained. The fees or charges for money orders will be as follows: On orders not exceeding $20, 10 cents; over $20 and up to $50, 25 cents. Fractions of cents must not be introduced into any order.

OREGON PAPER.—We have on our table some samples of Oregon made paper, the first ever manufactured in this State. They are from the Oregon City paper mills, and at the hour of writing are not more than twenty-four hours old. The mills, after considerable delay and a few alterations in the machinery, as first set up, was started yesterday, the 10th inst., on brown, straw wrapping paper, and samples of the result are before us. The paper has not been submitted to pressure and is, consequently, rough in surface, but we have never seen any straw paper of tougher texture. This quality is specially noticeable by every one who examines it. We can readily see how this paper will in a short time supercede the use of any imported article, unless the price shall be fixed at a higher figure than that of Eastern and California make. Its strong, tough texture will place it beyond competition in the Oregon market. We feel very much like boasting and jubilating a little over this first effort of Oregon in paper manufacture. We hail its success the opening of a long list of Oregon productions that shall yet place our State upon a firm basis of prosperity—the result of the true, practical principles and economy of our people. We are informed that the mill will be worked right along on this kind of paper for two or three months, and that then, it will undertake news paper for which its machinery is well adapted. The price of brown straw paper made by the Willamette mills, 20 by 30, is $2 per ream for wrapping. There is no apparent reason why Oregon paper may not be made as cheap. Mr J Carroll is the Superintendent of the Oregon City mills—a gentleman recently from California and reputed to be thoroughly conversant with the business. We welcome this addition to the list of Oregon enterprises, and bespeak for it the liberal support of our people.

OREGON ROUTE VS. CHICO ROUTE.—We are always pleased when our Idaho friends open their bosoms—especially when they are in the mood to make a "clean breast" of anything. It will be refreshing to the anti-Oregon route people to read the following highly suggestive remarks on the Chico route and the Chico mails, from the Idaho Times:

"A certain Don Quixote Captain and his associate, Con. Bidwell, got a mail contract. By those who were acquainted with them they were considered men of some function. Of course, as such men generally do they have entirely failed to fulfill their agreement. The Government will probably pay these men for their services. A couple of upstarts, Major and Captain, they will have to be paid because this good-for-nothing route was created for their benefit! It runs by Mr. Bidwell's ranch and from there into a snow bank. Mr Bidwell was very persistent in his demands at Washington that the Idaho mails should be carried by his ranch. Well they were so carried without any 'celerity certainty or security' for a month or two, since when they haven't been carried at all. This Major Bidwell is a member of Congress from Chico, the mails are probably piled up on his ranch for the winter. When spring comes they will haul some of their stock this way and bring through a portion. If Government would only turn the delayed mails over, sacks and all, to this Captain Mullan and Major Bidwell in payment on their mail contract it might not be such a losing game after all.

"In the meantime, as usual the mails are carried on the Columbia route with "certainty, celerity and security.""

PROSPECTING EXPEDITION.—Mr Wm. M. Blain, now in this city, informs us that he is organizing a party for the purpose of prospecting the country South of the Dalles and West of Canyon City, for gold diggings which he believes to exist there. Most people will remember the stories about the discovery by the immigrants of 1845 of a yellow metallic substance which was malleable under the hammer," and which, after the discovery of gold three years after, in California was believed to have been gold. Several small parties have, at various times, undertaken to find the locality described by these immigrants, but the expeditions have invariably failed on account of the presence of numerous hostile Indians. Unless we are mistaken, some of the men with the train of 1845 have made the attempt at re-discovery, without success. The fact is, however that no real prospect of that country has ever been made. Mr Blain proposes to go with one hundred men, well equipped and armed, to go with him in the spring—about the 1st of April if the weather should be then suitable—and make a thorough prospect of all the country above indicated. He informs us that he now has thirty men pledged to the enterprise. Among the men composing the train of 1845 which passed through that region may be mentioned Benj. Cornelius (now dead), Mr McNary, Dr Ralph Wilcox, Mr Twedlinger, Mr Fulier and Mr Martin the latter two of Corvallis, and others. Mr Blain says that a Mr Bee, of Marion county, picked up $19 from the bed of a small stream, about one hundred and seventy five miles south of the Dalles but in what year, we did not learn.

AMUSEMENTS AT THE ORO FINO.—The Tanner Troupe will give one of their entertainments to night at the Oro Fino, consisting of select songs and fancy dances by Miss Adelaide, Burlesques by O'Neil, Tanner, Graham; Clog Jig by Miss Ada, Mississippi Fling by O'Neil and numerous other laughable performances by the company. Entire change of programme and first night of Mrs McCormick's Reel." The bill is a good one.

WILLAMETTE EXPORTS.—Per Senator, Jan 11th: 2 004 qr sks flour, 22 boxes, 477 boxes apples, 25 gunnies dried fruit, 27 hlf bbls lard, 2 bbls do, 10 sacks middlings.

Per Alert: 1,824 qr sks flour, 251 boxes apples, 2 cases hams, 42 gunnies bacon, 1 box eggs, 1 hlf bbl lard, 2 sks wool, 1 casting, 4 sks dried apples.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—The remainder of the stock of goods at Levy Ally's, on First street, will be sold this morning at Sheriff's sale.

COUNTY COURT—MARQUAM JUDGE.—The following proceedings are for Thursday and Friday:

Order for appointment of viewers to locate a county road in Powell's valley and to change location of the county road running parallel with the McAdamized road between the houses of Thomas Stephens and James Terwilliger.

Dr Edgar Poppleton appointed Coroner.

Petition of Dr H S Atkinson to retail liquors in East Portland rejected.

In the matter of the estate of W. H. Frost an order was made for the sale of [illegible] to be upheld.

The guardian [illegible] application for reduction of assessments and the remission of taxes paid.

Application of Carmel B[illegible] to have refunded $100 bail money forfeited for non appearance as a witness to testify in the case of the State vs. Barbara Miller and Church at June term Circuit Court 1866.

RECORDER'S COURT.—Mike Carr charged with disorderly conduct—fighting, was discharged, it appearing that he acted only in justifiable self defence.

Charley Loughlin—same charge—fined $5 and costs.

In the case of J. Bloom charged with keeping a tippling house on Sunday nobody appeared to prosecute and the accused was discharged.

Wong Sing vs McCaugh—civil suit for wages judgment for plaintiff $9 and costs.

CLIMATE.—It is very fashionable among Californians to abuse our Webfoot climate. Mr Joe Buchtell who has just returned from San Francisco says that it rained all the time he was there, and rained with only two days exception, for nearly eight weeks and was raining "like mad cats" when he left. That discounts Oregon mists by a considerable pecentage.

WATCH MAKER AND JEWELER.—Mr L. C. Henrichsen successor to Jacob Cohen, has a new advertisement this morning. He has just returned from San Francisco with a splendid stock of articles in his line and will be glad to see any of his friends at his place—the same as that formerly occupied by Mr Cohen on Front street.

LINE DOWN.—The telegraph line was down last evening at some point South of here, and consequently, there are no dispatches.

STRUCK IT AT LAST.—During this everlasting rainy sloppy weather one of the most urgent needs of the people, is a covering for the feet that will answer the double purpose of keeping out the cold and water. In view of this want our friend A. H. White has imported something that is just to the point.—Arctic overshoes which he has on sale at his place on Front street opposite the New Columbian Hotel. These not only keep the feet thoroughly dry but are proof against cold. Mr W. also has, per steamers Pacific and Montana a large assortment of ladies and Misses gaiters of the latest styles.

A COLD WEATHER ITEM.—Notwithstanding the cold weather and the consequent rush to Barman Bros store for suits of winter clothing they yet have enough on hand to supply the want of everybody. While customers keep the goods going, going going, Barman Bros keep fresh stocks coming coming, coming—thus preserving the equality of supply and demand.

A child can operate a Grover & Baker Sewing Machine. It sews from two common spools, makes a stitch stronger than that made by hand, and its simplicity is marvelous in comparison to its capacity. The elegant embroidery which is now so popular is all executed by this celebrated sewing machine. WM CURRIER & Co, agents, 103 Front street, Portland.

The English Press on Ireland

The tone of the British press on the reported disturbances in Ireland is simply horrible. More rumor of another outbreak, of which England has had a year's warning, and to meet which she has made ample preparation, excites an undisguised ferocity. That Tory passion the world well knows. It sometimes lurks covert in fine language and learned sneers, with its kennel among books, magazines, court journals, and noble saloons. It rushes like blood to the face of England, and like a blood hound to its foot, whenever a people debauched, down-trodden, and famished by the most complicated system of wrong which the ingenuity of centuries could inflict, must, in very desperation of nature, dare assert their manhood, and whenever a national crime is to be committed, and a nation hunted down to its death, suddenly, cruelly and remorselessly. Are we unjust? Witness India, witness Jamaica, witness that most piteous story of Ireland, written in martyrdom and illustrated by famine—a tragedy too wholesale to be acted again, but to be remembered as vividly as any with which the genius of man has moved the world to tears. Recollecting the Irishman's inheritance of wrong, it is the least to expect that Englishmen and English Government should studiously incline to be merciful, and to manifest justice. The prayer of Ireland, and of Englishmen in its behalf, has for many a day remained unobserved. If, in spite of every oppression, Ireland still exists, and is measurably in sentiment and intelligence with the civilization of the world, it is in pursuance of a law of growth by which no principle is permitted to die and no murderer to stamp out the seed of his victim, by which John Brown and Robert Emmet still live, and are surely marching with regenerated and regenerative hosts, to the ballot box—be it in America, where black men are denied their rights, or in Great Britain, where Irishmen and Englishmen alike have their wrongs. Praise, all who will, the England which pets its scholars. We do not applaud the mother who devours her children.

Counseled, armed, prepared, the nation whose power is feebly represented by millions of men and hundreds of millions of money, is terribly frightened at what it was pleased to regard a mendicant rebellion. Such shouts as now pursue the Irish "rebels" from the columns of the London press sound very like those which must have followed the Jamaica negroes before they were killed by a mob of uniformed butchers, and ominously like the cries with which the titled victims of revolution were hounded to the guillotine. "Captured robbers should be hung!" cries The Standard. "Leave no loophole of escape" shrieks The Herald." "Stamp them out as we stamped out the cattle plague," shouts The Times, with a ferocity for which there can be no pardon. Even The News expresses a cruel fatalism, and says "England must put down relentlessly the sedition which her misrule has stirred up." Why, indeed, must England be relentless? Because she has persecuted her sister country for hundreds of years on the same unprofitable plan? Because the Rebellion, actual or threatened, promises more than an outbreak? Whatever be the pretext, the sentiment of this free country should warn the common sense of England against adding another scandal of crime to the political blunders by which her Government has deluged lands where no good crop has subsequently grown. India slaughtered by thousands, and more lately, starved by millions, bears no good tribute to this horrible and hideous policy. Jamaica, with its hundreds, flogged and killed to appease one man's tyrant and reckless fear, is a caution which we beg the new apostles of butchery to heed in the name of the crime for which the woman whipper, and the stamper-out ex-Gov. Eyre is to be tried, and let us hope, convicted. The stamping-out process as thus applied to men has proved the most wretched and costly of failures. It is the device of brute fear and ignorance, and the progress of human knowledge, let us trust, will render it at last unnecessary to deal out that sinister mercy even to the brute. But to treat a nation in arms as cattle, is worse than brutal. Six millions of Irish cattle oppressed as no human cattle ever were, have asked for food and justice. Food, pasture and justice being denied the plague of rebellion breaks out among them. What shall be done? ask Conservatives. What should be done? ask the Liberals. Stamp them out! shouts The Times. May a generous people, powerless to day, but mighty to morrow remember these fierce words when they march to the franchise.

The world well knows the plain English of "a relentless policy." The "stamping-out process" is one of wholesale slaughter, without trial or shrift. If the rebellion be small, The Times would have martial law hanging forthwith; if large, not the less should its thousands be hanged. It is not necessary to say that if but a small outbreak, there is no need of harsh measures; if extensive and formidable, it is respectable, and the stamping out process in its application can only impose upon an oppressed people still bloodier wrong and provoke the world to an indignant and horrified protest. Herein is the whole reason and moral of the stamping out process as executed with criminal folly in Jamaica. The Tory public with The Times is again insanely ready to strain bloodily at the gnat of the threatened rebellion and swallow the camel of a whole massacre. North America succeeded in putting down a gigantic rebellion, and doing away with a national crime without having sacrificed one man to the stamping out process, and the future of the Union is all the better for our forbearance. We believe that The Times and all its mates of the British press were, during the rebellion, the most superserviceable appellants for mercy to our rebels. Our war was pronounced barbarous, but we stamped nobody out, our treatment of women was called shocking but we flogged none, our conduct of the war was termed cruel, but suffered the deadly dry rot among our prisoners at Andersonville without any retaliation in kind. Finally, we have hung nobody for treason and the press of London, now clamoring for a basin of blood to be extracted out of a drop of Irish rebellion, applauded our humanity to the echo. What the Tories of England asked of us is what we now have a right to demand in the name of civilization, for the oppressed people of Ireland.—N. Y. Tribune.

A nobby young man eagerly took a situation at Cleveland, Ohio where he was assured he was wanted to do a great deal of traveling, but gave up the place in disgust when he found that the "traveling" consisted in riding a blind lame old horse, to grind tanbark.

A FAITHFUL DAUGHTER.—We spoke, a few days ago, of the pardon by the President of Erastus O. Parker, of Monument, convicted four years ago of receiving money stolen from the mail as it was said, and we referred to the long continued efforts that were made for his release. We ought to have added that these efforts and his final release are due to the fidelity and energy of his daughter Miss Amelia Parker. For the four years during which Mr Parker has been confined, he has continued to fill the position of station agent of the Cape Cod railroad at Monument, the officers of the road including Col. Page the late President having faith in his innocence and his daughter during all the time in cold and heat and storm has performed all the duties of the station agency to the entire satisfaction of the corporation and has worked constantly for her father's liberation. It is a source of gratification to her many friends that she has finally succeeded in this labor of filial love and it will be worth a great deal to her in future life to remember that she accomplished so much for the happiness of the family.—Bedford Mass.) Mercury.

IMPORTANCE OF HAVING DAVIS' PAIN KILLER ALWAYS ON HAND.

Extract from his letter, published in the Baptist Missionary Magazine:

For the first time since I have been in India, I have been stung by a scorpion. I went out this morning to my exercise as usual, at early dawn and having occasion to use an old box on taking off the cover I put my hand on a scorpion which immediately resented the insult by thrusting its sting into the palm of my hand. The instantaneous and severe pain which darted through the system is quite incredible; what an awful virulent pain their sting must contain! I FLEW TO MY BOTTLE OF DAVIS PAIN KILLER and found it to be true to its name after a few moments relief, I saturated a small piece of sponge, bound it on my hand, and went about by exercises, feeling no more particular inconvenience.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

STOP THAT COUGHING

SOME OF YOU CAN'T, AND WE PITY you. You have tried every remedy but the ONE destined, by its intrinsic merit, to supersede all similar preparations. It is not surprising you should be reluctant to try something else after the many experiments you have made of trashy compounds foisted on the public as a certain cure, but

is really the VERY BEST remedy ever compounded for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Consumption. Thousands of people in California and Oregon have been already benefited by the surprising curative powers of

and with one accord give it their unqualified approbation. We now address ourselves to all who are unacquainted with this, the greatest Panacea of the age, for the healing of all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, assuring you that has cured thousands and it will cure YOU if you try it.

This invaluable medicine is pleasant to the taste, soothing, healing and strengthening in its effects, entirely free from all poisonous or deleterious drugs, and perfectly harmless under all circumstances.

Artemus Ward Visits the British Museum

Mr Punch—Dear Sir You didn't get a instructiv article from my pen last week on account of my nervis sistum havin underwent a dreadful shook I got caught in a brief shine of the sun and it utterly upsot me I was walking in Regent street one day last week enjoyin your rich black fog and bracin rains when all at once the sun burst out and actoolly shone for nearly half an hour steady I acted promptly I called a cab and told the driver to run his hoss at a frightful rate of speed to my lodgins, but it wasn't of no avale I had orful cramps my appetite left me and pulse went down to ten degrees below zero But by careful nussin I shall no doubt recover speedy, if the present sparklin and exilaratin weather continues

[All of the foregoing is sarcasm]

It is singular fack but I never sot eyes on your excellent British moosoum till the other day I've sent a great many people there as also to your genial tower of London however It happened thusly When one of my excellent countrymen just arrived in London would come to see me and display a inclination to cling to me too lengthy thus showin a respect for me which I feel I do not deserve, I would suggest a visit to the moosoum and tower, the moosoum would ockepy him a day at least, and the tower another Thus I've derived considerable peace and comfort from these noble edifises, and I hope they will long continner to grace your metropolis There's my intimate friend Col Larkins, from Wisconsin, who, I regret to say, understands completely the Jamaica question and wants to talk with me about it, I sent him to the tower four days ago and he hasn't got through it yet He likes it very much and he writes me that he can't never thank me sufficient for directin him to so interestin a bildin I writ him not to menshun it The Colonel says it is fortnit we live in a intellectool age which wouldn't countenance such infamous things as occurred in the tower I'm aware that's fashin ble to compliment this age but I ain't so clear that the Colonel is altogether right This is a very respectable age, but its pretty easily riled and considerin upon how slight a provocation we who live in it go to cuttin each other's throats, it may perhaps be doubted whether our intellecks is so massiver than our ancestor's intellecks was, after all

I ullus ride outside with the cabman I am of humble parentage, but I have (if you will permit me to say so) the spirit of the eagle, which chafes when shut in a four-wheeler, and I feel much eagler when I'm in the open air So on the mornin' when I went to the Moosoum I lit a pipe, and callin a cab, I told the driver to take me through as quick as his Arabian charger could go The driver was under the influence of beer, and narrely escaped runnin over an aged female in the match trade whereupon I remonstrated with him I said, "That poor old woman may be the only mother of a young man like you" Then throwin considerable pathos in my voice, I said, "You have a mother?"

He said, "That is false!" I got down and called another cab, but said nothin to this driver about his parents

The British Moosoum is a magnificent free show for the people It is kept open for the benefit of all

The humble costymonger who traverses the busy streets with a cart containing all kinds of vegetables, such as carrots, turnips, etc, and drawn by a spirited jackass—he can go to the moosoum and reap benefits therefrom as well as the lord of high degree.

"And this," I said, "is the British Moosoum! These noble walls," I continered, punching them with my umbreller to see if the masonry was all right—but I wasn't allowed to finish my enthoosiastic remarks, for a man with a gold band on his hat said, in a harsh voice, that I must stop pokin the walls I told him I would do so by all means. "You see," I said, takin hold of the tassel which waived from the man's belt, and drawin him close to me in a confidential way, "you see, I'm lookin around this moosoum, and if I like it I shall buy it"

Instid of larfin heartily at these remarks, which was made in a goakin spirit, the man frowned darkly and walked away

I first visited the stuffed animals, of which the gorrillers interested me most These simple minded monsters live in Afriky, and are believed to be human beins to a slight extent, altho' they are not allowed to vote In this department is one or two superior giraffs I never woulded I were a bird, but I've sometimes wished I was a giraff, on account of the long distance from his mouth to his stummuck Hence if he loved beer, one mugful would give him as much enjoyment while goin down as forty mugsful would ordinary persons And he wouldn't get intoxicated, which is a beastly way of amusin onesself, I must say I like a little beer now and then, and when the teetotallers inform us, as they frequently do, that it is vile stuff, and that even the swine shrink from it, I say it only shows that the swine is an ass who don't know what's good, but to pour gin and brandy down one's throat as freely as though it was fresh milk, is the most idiotic way of going to the devil that I know of.

I enjoyed myself very much looking at the Egyptian mummys, the Greek vases, etc, but it occurred to me that there was raythar too many Roman antiquitys of a uncertain date Now, I like the British Moosoum, as I said afore, but when I see a lot of earthen jugs and pots stuck up on shelves, and all "of a uncertain date" I'm at a loss to know whether they are a thousand years old or was bought recent I can cry like a child over a jug one thousand years of age—especially if it is a Roman jug; but a jug of uncertin date doesn't overwhelm me with emotions Jugs and pots of uncertain age is doubtless valyable property, but like the debentures of the London Chatham and Dover railway, a man doesn't want too many of them

I was debarred out of the readin room A man told me I must apply by letter for admission, and that I must get somebody to testify that I was respectable. I'm a little afraid I shan't get in there Seein a elderly gentleman with a benevolent lookin face, near by, I ventured to ask him if he would certify that I was respectable. He said he would not, but he would put me in charge of a policeman, if that would do me any good A thought struck me "I refer you to Mr Punch," I said

"Well," said the man who listened to my application, "you have done it now! You stood some chance before" I will get this infamous wretch's name before you go to press so you can denounce him in the present number of your excellent journal

The statute of Apollo is a pretty slick statute A young yeoman seemed deeply impressed with it. He viewed it with silent admiration At home, in the beautiful rural districks where the daisy sweetly blossoms, he would be swearin in a awful manner at his bullocks, and a whackin 'em over the head with a hayfork, but here, in the presence of Art he is a changed bein

I told the attendant that if the British nation would stand the expense of a marble bust of myself, I would willingly sit to some talented sculptist. "I feel," said I, "that this is a dooty I owe to posterity" He said it was hily prob'l, but he was inclined to think that the British nation wouldn't care to enrich the moosoum with a bust of me, altho' he ventured to think that if I paid for one myself it would be accepted cheerfully by Madam Tussaud, who would give it a prominent position in her Chamber of Horrors The young man was very perlite, and I thankt him kindly

After visitin the refreshment room and partaking of half a chicken "of a uncertain age," like the Roman antiquitys I have previsly spoken of, I prepared to leave As I passed through the animal room I observed with pane that a benevolent person was urging the stuff elephant to accept a cold muffin, but I did not feel called on to remonstrate with him any more than I did with two young persons of different sexes who had retired behind the Rynoceerhoss to squeeze each other's hands In fack, I rather approved of the latter proceedin for it carried me back to the sunny spring time of my life. I'm in the sear and yeller leaf now but I don't forgit the time when to squeeze my Betsy's hand sent a thrill through me like falling off the roof of a two story house, and I never squeezed that gentle hand without wanting to do so more and feeling that it did me good Trooly yoors

Battle of Dunksburg —The following amusing account of a battle that occurred in the wilds of Missouri is taken from Frank Moore's "Anecdotes of the Rebellion" It is a valuable bit of eccentric history

The village of Dunksburg is situated in the northeast corner of Pettis county Missouri and very near the stream known as Black Water In the southeast part of Lafayette county and immediately in the neighborhood of Dunksburg there is a large German settlement From the very commencement of the troubles in Missouri the Germans were loyal to the Government and as they were the first against whom the vengeance of the secessionists was directed they were the first to take up arms in the defence of their adopted country, and a small company of some forty or fifty banded themselves together for the purpose of self defense making the church at Dunksburg their temporary headquarters Late one afternoon they were notified of the approach of a considerable body of rebels from Pettis and Saline counties and they prudently determined to retreat from the position they held in the church believing that they would be unable to defend it against greatly superior numbers

The attacking party not aware that the Germans had retreated advanced cautiously under cover of night and by a dexterous movement succeeded in surrounding the church and at a signal agreed on immediately commenced a heavy fire upon the building which being only weather boarded with thin pine or poplar plank offered scarcely any resistance to the bullets which were rapidly discharged from rifles and shot guns and which passing through and through the house killed and wounded many of the assailants unprepared for what they mistook for a vigorous defence on the part of the Germans after considerable loss in killed and wounded they retreated to their camp a short distance off but, dissatisfied with the result, and believing entirely in their power to capture the small force which had peppered them so severely they determined to return to the charge and to carry the church at the point of the bayonet

The same precaution was used in making their advances for a second attack and they completely surrounded the building before the word was given to fire Greatly to their astonishment at the first volley many of their men were killed and being in close proximity to the building several were seriously injured by splinters which were scattered in every direction by the balls passing through the house The fire was so destructive that no time was lost in forcing the doors of the building with the purpose of making a finish of all the Dutch inside but greatly to their disappointment and mortification, they discovered that there was not a single Dutchman anywhere about the house and that they had been guilty of the extreme folly of shooting each other Thus ended the battle of Dunksburg—an event long to be remembered by the peaceful inhabitants of that quiet village, which has become famous among the bloody localities of Missouri

What Causes Sleep —A curious and ingenious theory has been propounded on the advantages of a small percentage of carbonic acid in the air as a conducive to sleep The seductive nature of this gas is well known, and with most animals in a state of nature sleep comes on at the time when plants commence to develop carbonic acid—that is at sunset and it relaxes its hold about sunrise, when plants begin to exhale oxygen Further when men and animals compose themselves to sleep, they not only do so in the position which gives the greatest relaxation to the muscles but they place the head so as to favor the accumulation of that gas about it and consequently its inhalation The head of a man, when at rest generally lies low, on a soft and depressed pillow those of most quadrupeds crouched between their paws, and those of birds nestle among the feathers of their backs or wings, so that in all cases, owing to the low and confined position of the mouth and nostrils, much of the air must be inhaled again and again and become mixed with a larger proportion of carbonic acid The fact is also adduced that the carnivora, who are nocturnal in their habits retire during the day to deep and narrow caverns, in which the air, becoming vitiated by the respiration, tends to promote sleep

WEEKLY REVIEW

Portland Friday 2 P M }
Jan 11 1867 }

Our latest quotation of gold is from New York via San Francisco, Jan 10—133 legal tenders 74c Gold, after going down to 131½ on the 27th ult. rallied to 134 declined again to 133 and has remained nearly stationary at that figure

Of our markets, nothing more can be said than that the dullness of last week remains unchanged The tendency of the flour and wheat market is downward Nothing doing except moderate shipments to San Francisco Butter bacon lard and dried fruit are in abundant supply and prices weak.

In the absence of local news, the following from the San Francisco Bulletin of the 2d may be of interest

The receipts of wheat during the past week were comparatively light, in view of the inclement weather From July 1st to December 31st inclusive, (being the first half the present year,) our receipts were 2,019 830 sks, against 1,243 259 for the corresponding time in 1865 showing an increase this year of 1,702 691 sks Our largest receipts during any one crop year was in 1861 when 2,160 723 sks came to hand Our receipts for the past six months exceed these figures by 88 127 sks It is believed that there is yet 2,000 000 sks to come forward With such a surplus on hand for export, coupled with every assurance of an unprecedented crop during the coming year holders are not anxious to retain stocks when they can sell as now at remunerative prices. Our exports for the week embraced only two cargoes for Great Britain aggregating 13 276 sks During the last half of the year 1866 we exported 1 622 026 sks, against 416 255 sks for the corresponding period in 1865 At present there are 16 vessels under charter to load wheat for Great Britain 4 to New York and 1 to Philadelphia aggregating 13,602 tons register Our New York correspondent under date of Dec 8th mentions the sale of 6 000 bushels of prime white California wheat at $3 35@3 38 ⅌ bushel in currency These shipments to the East are attracting considerable attention in the leading Atlantic cities.

The China Mail line was successfully inaugurated yesterday by the departure of the Colorado She carried a light cargo including 1 300 barrels of flour valued at $10 000, and $382,287 in treasure, $340 250 of it being for China and the balance for Japan

The Alta California of the 1st says The hopes of the business as well as the whole community are centered in the results of the voyages now commenced by the steam line to China The Colorado is already advertised for April 1st The attention of the world has been fixed upon the enterprise All interests are now anxious for the manner in which San Francisco will acquit herself of the mission which the irresistible march of the American people towards Empire has placed in her hands. Her progress as a commercial city hitherto is a guarantee that she will be equal to the task A city of seventeen years growth which has been able to pay the Federal Government in the last year $7 457 472 gold taxes on imports making with the two previous years $20 649 225 of gold for taxes on imported goods has given a guarantee of her commercial ability although her Chamber of Commerce and leading bankers have been compelled to struggle against anti-commercial legislation The matter is now a national enterprise A late number of the New York Journal of Commerce remarks

The steamship Celestial City of 4 000 tons the second vessel for the new line to China and Japan will be launched from Wm H Webb's shipyard foot of Sixth street E R at 9½ o'clock to-morrow morning, Her consort the Great Republic is receiving her machinery as fast as possible at the iron works in this city An increased interest in this enterprise is felt with the approach of December 11th when the steamship Henry Chauncey leaves this port as the pioneer on the new route to connect with the Colorado at San Francisco Jan 1st The undertaking is a formidable one worthy of the progressive spirit of this most progressive age and creditable to the American people No one can predict the consequences to ensue from the feeble beginning [illegible] Europe is not indifferent It is only reasonable to anticipate a most important diversion of traffic from the old channels of commerce [illegible] that this route to the Orient is expeditious and reliable

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE PAYMENT OF BOUNTIES UNDER THE ACT TO EQUALIZE BOUNTIES APPROVED JULY 28 1866

War Department Adjutant General's Office, }
Washington September 18 1866 }

1 All applications shall be filed within the period of six months from the 1st day of October 1866 and before any payments are made shall be classified by regiments battalions or other separate organizations, and no application filed after that period shall be settled until after the former shall have been paid

2 No application shall be entertained unless accompanied by the original discharge of the soldier and the affidavit required by the fourteenth section of the Act, and the further affidavit that he has not received, nor is he entitled to receive from the United States, under any laws or regulations prior to the Act of July 28 1866, more than $100 bounty for any and all military service rendered by him during the late rebellion, over and above the amount therein claimed

3 All applications for the additional bounty authorized by this Act from surviving soldiers shall be in the form hereinafter prescribed and the evidence of identity shall be the same as is now required and applications from the heirs of deceased soldiers shall be in the form now required by the Treasury Department.

4 As soon as the examination of the claims of any regiment or other independent organization shall have been properly acted upon the Paymaster General shall take the necessary steps for their prompt payment

5 A register shall be kept in the Paymaster General's office and also in the office of the Second Auditor of all claims presented under the law, in which the claimants will be classified by regiments etc If the claims be allowed the amount of bounty paid to each will be noted and if rejected the cause of rejection will be distinctly stated

6 In the applications for bounty as required by the third of these rules, the affidavit shall state each and every period of service rendered by the claimant and also that he never served otherwise than as herein stated

7 Organizations irregularly in the service of the United States or called out for special purposes as State Militia, Home Guards etc and not included in the general bounty laws, are not included within the meaning of the Act

8 Soldiers enlisted for three years or during the war who were discharged by reason of the termination of the war shall be considered as having served out the period of their enlistment, and are entitled to bounty under this Act

9 The minority of heirs, claimants for bounty under this Act must be proved to have existed at the date of its passage Parents shall receive jointly the bounty to which they may be entitled as heirs unless the father has abandoned the support of his family in which case it shall be paid to the mother Non-residence in the United States shall not be a bar to the claim of heirs, who would otherwise legally inherit

The provisions of the Act exclude from its benefits the following classes

1 Those who, after serving the full period of their enlistment were dishonorably discharged at its expiration

2 Those discharged during enlistment by way of favor or punishment

3 Those discharged on account of disability contracted in the service but not occasioned by wounds received in the line of duty who shall not have previously served two or three years respectively at the time of discharge

4 Those discharged on account of disability existing at the time of their enlistment

5 The heirs of those who have died since their discharge of wounds or disease not contracted in the service and in the line of duty

6 The surviving soldiers and heirs of deceased soldiers who under previous laws have received or are entitled to receive a bounty of more than $100 from the United States

7 The surviving soldiers as well as the heirs of deceased soldiers when such soldiers have bartered, sold assigned loaned transferred exchanged or given away their final discharge papers or any interest in the bounty provided by this or any other Act of Congress

8 The Act of the 28th of July 1866 creates no right of inheritance beyond those vested by the law under which these heirs received or were entitled to receive the original bounty and fathers and mothers brothers and sisters [illegible] entitled to receive the original bounty [illegible] for the additional bounty provided by this Act

Respectfully referred to the Attorney General for his opinion whether the rules and regulations as with [illegible] uniform with law

617 KEARNEY STREET NEAR COMMERCIAL San Francisco Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhea Gleet, Stricture Syphilis in all its forms Seminal Weakness Impotency etc Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents guardians friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies See that they are cared for and cured before it be too late Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of the friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms unless combated by scientific medical measures viz Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots uneasiness about the loins weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances a disposition to shun society, loss of memory hectic flushes pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue fetid breath coughs consumption night sweats monomania and frequent insanity If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co
